

What is the Institute For?

The Spiritual Institute of New Zealand is an open Institute.

Whilst requiring all Members to make the Promise which includes 'Work in the light', the Spiritual Institute of New Zealand does not identify itself with any one religion.

There is no established Church within the Institute.

The Spiritual Institute of New Zealand is independent of any other organisation or political group.

The Spiritual Institute of New Zealand is not directly and immediately concerned with the religious education of its Members.

Our Mission and Objectives

The Spiritual Institute of New Zealand's primary aim is to promote ethical, responsible, professional Healers, Psychics and Spiritual workers to the public and the medical profession.

We believe that by promoting the Spiritual Institute of New Zealand and its members through the media we are able to help the public and professionals to realise that Spiritualists - when delivered safely and ethically - provide a viable and highly desirable form of knowledge and benefit.

In addition, here at the Institute, we are totally dedicated to representing "the professional face of Spiritual truth and medicine" and by promoting research, education and knowledge in the field, we will help to stimulate demand for these benefits.

The Institute is great news for professional practitioners, ethical colleges and patients who demand and expect excellence in every aspect of treatment.

A great part of our work consists of referring public and conventional medics alike to registered members so that they can be assured that treatment will be delivered by a highly qualified, professional; who adheres to a strict Code of Ethics and disciplinary procedure.

The Institute negotiates at governmental level in many cases to help governments to understand that Spiritualists do not pose a threat, but can and positively benefit their people and consequently, their systems.

Each member before being granted membership must read understand and sign the Code of Ethics and Rules of Conduct agreement. This Agreement is bound by New Zealand and International Laws guaranteeing you a sound ethical professional.

The member is then taken through rigorous training to guarantee they know their stuff and can channel the truth from the higher self (GOD).

They are helped to release their own issues and helped to grow in a spiritual nature to be able to clearly tune and be clear for the people they channel for.

Each member is taught how to be solely in the light, and never to disobey the laws of God, Man, or the code of ethics by which the institute stands.

"in the light" means to work from a position of pure universal love, following the rules of God and the rules of man. To never try and do anything that they know or feel is wrong, or places another being in a position against there will or Gods will.

If you would like further information, or would like to register a compliment or complaint please contact us through the details on the front page or the form provided on the back of this brochure.

We would love your feedback on our members this helps us all to grow.
